

SUBURBAN SCRIBE

April 2015 Supplemental

Still getting my ducks in a row! Here's a few more items that did not get into the newsletter.

Anthology Committee by Westley Turner

Work on the club's third annual anthology is moving ahead. There are currently more than seventeen authors who have submitted over twenty-five stories, poems, and articles. And the list is only getting longer. We have a lot of work ahead but still plan to be done by late summer or early fall.

The challenge we are presenting to each of you today is ideas for a title — a creative word or phrase that will entice readers to pick up the book ... and buy it. You may want to keep in mind that many of the submissions this year are memoir.

We also need a cover design, so if you have a wonderful idea, please sketch it up and give it to Wes, April, or Mary Lou, or just describe your idea and email it to any or all of us.

Get your creative juices flowing and your artistic skills honed. Let's make this year's anthology as successful as our previous two.

*Correction to page 1 on the newsletter: John's article on Elevator Speeches is on page 4, not page 3. I have a few people who critique the newsletter before it goes out, but more reminders on if I got your article and more eyes on the product previous to its release would help me greatly.

While I'm on the topic of elevator speeches, here's a link to another helpful article.

http://www.quintcareers.com/elevator_speech_dos-donts.html

I would suggest researching such things on your own genre, too.

This can also serve as the example of didn't get it in but the info can't wait until the next month? I can do up a page pretty easy but of course, it's better to minimize the addendums. In this case, I misplaced one of the articles. I know many of you already do this, but just a friendly reminder to make the subject line say NEWSLETTER, pretty please and thanks.

Have a great Easter!

Your Newsletter Scribe,

Roberta "Bert" D.

Tech Writer by day/Sci-fi by Night

